Engineers, researchers, students, composites fabricators, apprentices, all industry professionals:

This is the premier composites event in Australia.

“Two days nobody in the composites industry should miss!”

Bringing you the best

Composites play an increasingly important role as a material of the future. This year’s conference will bring you the latest in research and development. The knowledge and insights you will pick up will be worth well more than the registration fee.

Papers and presentations will address a variety of topics, including but not limited to: new and emerging technologies, “green” composites, sustainability, environmental matters, issues for fabricators, innovative uses of composites, leading-edge and every-day processes, education & training, research & development, business management and occupational health & safety issues.

“Diversity in Composites”

From aerospace research and working on the Dreamliner to developing carbon fibre cars; from corrosion-resistant pipes and tanks for the mining industry to building bridges and buildings with composites - the diversity of applications for composites is already wide-ranging and only continues to grow.

Furthermore, in uncertain economic times, composites fabricators and manufacturers can apply their processes and skills to a diversity of products, allowing them to diversify; when one market is down, another will be on the rise.

This year a reviewed stream of academic and research papers has been added to our Programme, which will also feature the popular Engineers Thursday and Fabricators Friday presentations.

The conference dinner – the industry event you won’t want to miss – takes place on Thursday 15th March!
